2,000 ANDSF Generals and Colonels to be Pensioned Off

Dawlat Waziri, the defense ministry’s (MoD) spokesman, said on Monday they have finalized the outline of the retirement plan for Afghan National Defense and Security Force (ANDSF) generals, colonels and other high-ranking military officers who will be pensioned off over the next two years.

The ANDSF is a military force that was established by the Ministry of Defense in 1919, following the Anglo-Afghan Treaty of 1919, with the aim of providing security and defense for Afghanistan.

The ANDSF has faced various challenges over the years, including insurgent attacks, internal conflicts, and international conflicts.

The ANDSF is a vital component of Afghanistan’s defense system, providing security and protection for the country’s citizens and infrastructure.

The retirement plan for ANDSF generals, colonels, and other high-ranking military officers is an important step in ensuring the sustainability and viability of the ANDSF’s operations.

The retirement plan will provide these officers with a secure and reliable retirement, allowing them to retire with dignity and honor.
