Some MPs Say Dissalay of Ministers will Impact Key Projects

KABUL - Some lawmakers in the Wolesi Jirga (Lower House of Parliament) said on Monday that the sacking of ministers will have repercussions in terms of implementating some key projects and the governance of the country.

Talking on the impact of the dismissal of six ministers in the past two days, some legal experts said that such a move could harm the interests of the people and the country.

This comes three days after the Wolesi Jirga started an impeachment process and in that time dismissed six ministers over their failure to spend at least 70 percent of their development budgets.

Some analysts speculate that the move would have a tangible impact on the implemention of the development budget, on governance and on the allocation of funds for some key projects in the country.

In a situation where the country is grappling with conflict, the dismissal of ministers could have a major impact on the implemention of the projects and governance, we believe that this would have implications for some key projects in the country.
