Kabul - Displaced by the conflict, around 3,000 families from two districts of northern Kunduz province have been struggling with numerous problems, including lack of shelter, access to infrastructure, and security. A resident of Imam Sahib district, Mohammad Na- safari, said hundreds of families from their area, especially from Shirvak and Bagram districts, were forced to flee their homes. He said the project costing 35 million afghanis are being launched worth 35 million afghanis. Abdul Karim Farzam, director of agriculture and livestock, said the chickens and food are being distributed to deserving women in Jala- babar Sarif and Baghram districts. He said the chickens and food were being funded by the Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock.

8 of a Family Lose Lives to Kunar Snowslide

Farid Dehqan, a spokesman for the provincial authorities, said, "The snowslide killed eight people, four of whom were children." It was a fierce force, we were forced to use two homes and come to Kunduz City, but one in which one has already helped us," he said.

Meanwhile, Shaheen Shahzad, a director of the provincial authorities, said that security forces had started surveying displaced families and that he had talked with aid organizations who had promised help.
