Afghanistan, Pakistan Envoy Calls on Taliban to Join Afghan Peace Talks

KABUL - A Pakistani envoy called for "unconditional" talks between the Afghan government and the Taliban to bring peace to Afghanistan, Pakistan media reported on Wednesday.

Addressing the United Nations General Assembly on Afghanistan's situation, Maleeha Lodhi, Pakistan's ambassador to the UN, said neither side in the conflict can impose a military solution on each other. Pakistan's Daily Times reported.

The Pakistani envoy called for a negotiated end to the war. "Neither the Coalition and Kabul, nor the Afghan Taliban, can impose a military solution on each other," she said. "Sixteen years of war, waged by the world's most powerful forces, has not secured a military solution like.

She added: "The promotion of a political settlement and the pursuit of a military solution in Afghanistan are mutually incompatible like.

KABUL - US Secretary of State Rex Tillerson has been accused of breaching a UN-brokered treaty in supporting the Afghan government's decision to exclude Afghan children from a list of countries that he decided to exclude Afghan and child soldiers from.

The accusation was leveled against the country's ambassador to the UN, who, in his capacity as a UN official, is concerned with children's rights.

KABUL -Addressing a UN session, the US ambassador to the UN, Nita R. Hauser, said Taliban and Daesh are involved in human smuggling.

"As noted in the Secretary-General's report, victims of trafficking by violent extremist groups like IS (Daesh) and the Taliban suffer from particularly severe trauma," she said.

"Not only have they been deprived of their basic human rights, they are also subjected to violence, arrest, and intimidation," she added.

She called for the United Nations to do more to support women's participation in all aspects of society. "Women's participation in elections is fully supported," she said.

She added that women should be given more opportunities to participate in peace negotiations. "Women's meaningful participation is crucial," she said.

She called for the United Nations to support the Afghan government in its efforts to bring peace to Afghanistan. "The Afghan government is committed to bringing peace to Afghanistan," she said.

"We are committed to working with the Afghan government to bring peace to Afghanistan," she added.
