US backs India’s role in Afghanistan

WASHINGTON - A US official said on Thursday that the United States supports India’s continued involvement in Afghanistan.

So far India has contributed more than $3 billion since 2001 in Afghanistan.

“The United States welcomes India’s substantial investment in and assistance to Afghanistan,” said Nancy Izzo Jackson, a State Department official in charge of Afghanistan, quoted by AFP.

“And we will continue to support efforts to achieve an honorable and enduring outcome in Afghanistan that preserves our investment in Afghanistan’s future,” she told a conference on India’s role in Afghanistan at the Hudson Institute.

India constructed the new parliament building in Afghanistan as well as the Salma Dam, a hydropower dam in the west of Afghanistan. (TOLO NEWS)

Trump Says Washington Working with Taliban to Reach to Agreement

WASHINGTON - The U.S. President Donald Trump on Friday said that Washington is working on an agreement with the Taliban militant group.

“You know we’re pulling way down in Afghanistan. We’re working on an agreement now with the Taliban,” Trump told Fox News on Friday. “Let’s see what happens.”

Hi Comments come days after the Taliban released two foreign professors, American Kevin King and Australian Timothy Weeks, in exchange for the release of three Taliban prisoners.

In addition, the insurgent group released 10 Afghan soldiers following the release of their prisoners by Afghan government.

“Let’s hope this leads to more good things on the peace front like a cease-fire that will help end this long war,” Trump tweeted on Tuesday.

The U.S. and Taliban negotiators held at least 10 rounds of formal talks for a yearlong until they reached an agreement “in principle”. However, Trump abruptly called off the talks after Taliban claimed responsibility for an attack in Kabul that killed several Afghans including an American soldier. (More on P4, 11)

The last time I was supposed to have a meeting, they [Taiwan] thought they would get away with it. But I thought it would be good to kill people so they could negotiate from a position of strength. I told Trump I was worried about this, but Trump told Fox News while explaining his decision of calling off his meeting with the president of Taiwan, “I’m very much against that decision. The trade war is a very unfair trade relationship between the United States and China. The United States has a substantial trade surplus with China and expects China to make major changes in its trading practices and policies. The trade war is not about China. The trade war is about us getting China to do what we want them to do.”

Meanwhile, the Indian Parliament’s Independent Human Rights Commission delivered a report in which they raised serious concerns about the human rights situation in Taiwan. The report stated that “President Trump insisted on a ceasefire as prenegotiation to ensure Taiwan’s stability.”

JORDAN - Israel continues to pay a high price for its military adventures, with more than a decade of fighting in the region leaving more than 700,000 people missing or unaccounted for. The Israeli military has come under increasing international pressure to explain its actions and its impact on civilians. The UN has called on Israel to halt its attacks on civilians and to allow humanitarian aid to enter the region. The International Community has urged Israel to respect international law and to cease its military operations.

India and Pakistan have been engaged in a border dispute over the disputed region of Kashmir since 1947. The dispute has escalated in recent years, with both countries conducting nuclear tests and deploying large numbers of troops along the Line of Control, a de facto border that divides the region. The situation remains highly volatile, with the potential for a military confrontation.

However, there is hope for peace in the region. The Indian and Pakistani governments have indicated a desire to reduce tensions and find a peaceful resolution to the dispute. International efforts, including mediation by the United Nations, have been made to facilitate dialogue between the two sides. In addition, many organizations and individuals have been working to promote peace and understanding in the region.

In conclusion, the situation in Kashmir remains complex, with both sides having strong and deeply held views on the issue. However, there is a growing recognition of the need for a peaceful resolution to the dispute, and efforts are being made to move towards a more stable and secure future for the region.

Several presidential candidates have called on IEC to invalidate around 300,000 votes from the 28 September election. They wanted those excluded before the IEC started auditing and recounted the votes from more than 8,000 polling stations.

Habib Ur Rahman Nang, head of IEC’s secretariat, said that they had received recount results from 20 provinces. Preliminary results from the vote were originally scheduled to be announced on October 19, but it has been postponed two times and it is unclear when it would be released. Zabihulah, an IEC’s spokesman, said that the commission was seeking to announce the results as soon as possible. (TV NEWS)
