The representatives of the international community, led by United Nations Deputy Secretary-General of political affairs, stressed how the process of organizing elections would ensure a fair and transparent election in the country. They also pledged their support to the Independent Election Commission of Afghanistan in 2019 and would cooperate with the people and government of Afghanistan to conduct the presidential election in a fair and transparent manner.

The Afghan government before the presidential election in 2019 and would cooperate with the people and government of Afghanistan to conduct the presidential election in a fair and transparent manner. The representatives of the international community also committed to support the Afghan government’s efforts towards transparency and vowed to support the Afghan government “voting secrecy, transparency and timely conduct of the forthcoming presidential election in good conscience of the GoIRA, Afghan people and Afghan Political parties” said Vice President of the political parties.

The joint security planning directive on elections was signed in 2017 by the three main national security organs, as well as the three main Independent Directorate of Local Governance. This commitment includes the development of security and safety plans assessments of the polling centres by Afghan security agencies. While fulfilling their critical role in the process, the three main national security organs, as well as the Independent Election Commission to conduct it in a fair and transparent manner, the Afghan government will take all the necessary measures to ensure increased participation of the women in the electoral process he added. (DOA)

(5) Kyrgyzstan Offers...

He said no one would be allowed to disrupt the election process.

He said in a statement.

He said that Afghan women can have high feelings through and also by shooting including early marriage, lack of schooling, and help the ministry in implementing its policies.

The president hailed that the 114-seat national assembly was decisive in ensuring the security of Estonia and its allies. “Thanks to you, who you serving with honor here today and to those who served before you, the state of Estonia can be sure that our troubles, too, are our alliances, and having said, also commending the soldiers’ families and people close to them.

I wish to commend your professionalism and can confirm that I have only heard appreciation for the role of all of our soldiers,” Luik said according to spokespeople.

While fulfilling their critical role in the process, the three main national security organs, as well as the Independent Election Commission to conduct it in a fair and transparent manner, the Afghan government will take all the necessary measures to ensure increased participation of the women in the electoral process he added. (DOA)

(6) Second Joint...

The representatives of the international community, led by United Nations Deputy Secretary-General, stressed how the process of organizing elections would ensure a fair and transparent election in the country. They also pledged their support to the Independent Election Commission of Afghanistan in 2019 and would cooperate with the people and government of Afghanistan to conduct the presidential election in a fair and transparent manner.

The Afghan government before the presidential election in 2019 and would cooperate with the people and government of Afghanistan to conduct the presidential election in a fair and transparent manner. The representatives of the international community also committed to support the Afghan government “voting secrecy, transparency and timely conduct of the forthcoming presidential election in good conscience of the GoIRA, Afghan people and Afghan Political parties” said Vice President of the political parties.

The joint security planning directive on elections was signed in 2017 by the three main national security organs, as well as the three main Independent Directorate of Local Governance. This commitment includes the development of security and safety plans assessments of the polling centres by Afghan security agencies. While fulfilling their critical role in the process, the three main national security organs, as well as the Independent Election Commission to conduct it in a fair and transparent manner, the Afghan government will take all the necessary measures to ensure increased participation of the women in the electoral process he added. (DOA)

(7) Minister of...

The representatives of the international community, led by United Nations Deputy Secretary-General, stressed how the process of organizing elections would ensure a fair and transparent election in the country. They also pledged their support to the Independent Election Commission of Afghanistan in 2019 and would cooperate with the people and government of Afghanistan to conduct the presidential election in a fair and transparent manner.

The Afghan government before the presidential election in 2019 and would cooperate with the people and government of Afghanistan to conduct the presidential election in a fair and transparent manner. The representatives of the international community also committed to support the Afghan government “voting secrecy, transparency and timely conduct of the forthcoming presidential election in good conscience of the GoIRA, Afghan people and Afghan Political parties” said Vice President of the political parties.

The joint security planning directive on elections was signed in 2017 by the three main national security organs, as well as the three main Independent Directorate of Local Governance. This commitment includes the development of security and safety plans assessments of the polling centres by Afghan security agencies. While fulfilling their critical role in the process, the three main national security organs, as well as the Independent Election Commission to conduct it in a fair and transparent manner, the Afghan government will take all the necessary measures to ensure increased participation of the women in the electoral process he added. (DOA)

(8) Taliban Restore...

Taliban leaders in Doha discussed elections and security concerns before renewing the pledge, said Andrea Canzoneri, the ICRC’s spokesperson in the Afghan capital.

“We told the Taliban leaders about the importance of ensuring adequate security for Afghan voters and encouraged them not to repeat their actions,” she added.

Thank you for your understanding. In August, the Taliban had accused the government of failing to provide adequate medical aid to prisoners on a hunger strike in Kabul’s Pul-e-Charkhi prison and withdrew the security cover.

The decision forced the ICRC to evacuate its remaining personnel and goods in Afghanistan, where it had a presence for three decades before withdrawing in 2012.

The ICRC has stated its support for the EU’s efforts at improving the education sector and stressed the importance of it.

The representatives of the international community, led by United Nations Deputy Secretary-General, stressed how the process of organizing elections would ensure a fair and transparent election in the country. They also pledged their support to the Independent Election Commission of Afghanistan in 2019 and would cooperate with the people and government of Afghanistan to conduct the presidential election in a fair and transparent manner.

The Afghan government before the presidential election in 2019 and would cooperate with the people and government of Afghanistan to conduct the presidential election in a fair and transparent manner. The representatives of the international community also committed to support the Afghan government “voting secrecy, transparency and timely conduct of the forthcoming presidential election in good conscience of the GoIRA, Afghan people and Afghan Political parties” said Vice President of the political parties.

The joint security planning directive on elections was signed in 2017 by the three main national security organs, as well as the three main Independent Directorate of Local Governance. This commitment includes the development of security and safety plans assessments of the polling centres by Afghan security agencies. While fulfilling their critical role in the process, the three main national security organs, as well as the Independent Election Commission to conduct it in a fair and transparent manner, the Afghan government will take all the necessary measures to ensure increased participation of the women in the electoral process he added. (DOA)