China, US Make ‘Substantial’ Trade Deal Progress

Beijing and Washington have made "substantial progress" in a trade deal, China's top negotiator said Saturday, in his first comments since US President Donald Trump last week. Trump announced a partial trade deal after meetings with the Chinese new trade delegation led by Vice Premier Liu He on October 11. It was unclear how far the talks had progressed, but it was expected to increase purchases of US farm products and protections for US intellectual property. - (More on P4)...(8)
