The society we reside in is in desperate need of true humanity, true cooperation between all human beings. Why should not we modify the system wherein human beings do not change. The people of our society are so much accustomed to lies and false exhibition and if we are able to defend our truth, it would mean a great accomplishment. The people of our society use so as to conceal the crimes of their society. On the other hand, the kindness and service to others are not responded to. When a person does an evil act, he is not all the time guilty for it. When a person does an evil act, he is not all the time guilty for it. Considering today’s society, it can be claimed that a person who is kind, who is helping others, who is doing something different would be ridiculous. As the rule of the race is to survive, to have economic interests with residents’ needs, and thus lower environmental conditions. Even the world’s best-intentioned planning departments do not consider the residents, including housing, social services, and banking. In this way, many poorly planned cities. Built in the middle of nowhere, these cities become less livable. Most cities fail to include key stakeholders in the planning process, and are more strategically linked to their surrounding regions and areas. Leaders everywhere, whether they are city or national leaders, are using social segregation and threatening the security and safety of their society, and to achieve an everlasting peace. We are a partner in this process. The society is recognized by its values and standards. Better societies have better standards in every facet of life; nonetheless, it is also arguable what better standards really mean. The standards that are humane, based on the well-being and development of the society, are humane. For instance, in contemporary modern world, modernity is one of the arguable standards but it cannot be concluded to be positive. Setting universal standards for the societies of the world is a difficult task as cultures and social settings differ and even contrast. However, the main point is to comprehend that the standards that do promote the well-being of societies’ beings are positive and be behavior - the one that is sensitive to the well-being of others, care and kindness for the fellow beings, true encouragement for science, arts, creativity and innovation are basically the ones that must be fostered and protected.
