Ex-ALP Leader Who Loses 16 Kin in Economic Straits

Mullah Haibatullah Among 32 Militants Killed in Ghazni: MoD

The Ministry of Defense said in a statement released on Wednesday that the Afghan Air Force conducted airstrikes in Jami in Ghazni province of Afghanistan.

The statement added that the airstrikes killed 26 militants including Mullah Haibatullah, a key commander of the Taliban, who was also the governor of Zabul, the financial in-charge of Taliban militants in Ghazni.

"The Taliban insurgent group has not made a comment about the report yet," the ministry said.

Zabul, a former Afghan Local Police (ALP) commander, who lost his family members to enemy with the Taliban, has died in bad economic situation.

Commander Shankar, resident of Hassi village of Jehalk district of south-eastern Paktika province, lost his mother, sister, daughter and three brothers during the conflict with the Taliban in Nangarhar province.

A 17-year-old boy lost his one leg and another two were wounded in a car bombing.

Meanwhile, Hamid Hamidi, a senator from the province, told Pajhwok that both the warming sides suffered casualties in the clash. The Taliban were pushed back after the attack, he said.

On the other hand, the Taliban claimed inflicting heavy casualties on security forces in the Khas Uruzgan attack. (Pajhwok)

Taliban Mount Bomb and Gun Attack on Khas Uruzgan

Meanwhile, Hanif Hanifi, a senator from the province, told Pajhwok Afghan News that the insurgents first detonated an explosives-laden car and then started firing late Tuesday.

Retaliating to the attack, Habib Agha told the district-based security forces killed 37 Taliban attackers and wounded another seven.

He said one soldier was killed and another three were wounded in the car bombing.
