(1) More Afghan refugees

Moved to Hariat city for the same reason by the end of last month. It estimated 22 million Afghans have left the country in the last 20 years. In addition, there are an estimated 46 million displaced-displaced people, mainly close to the borders of the country. The U.N. cited an examination by aid by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) that about 40 percent of Pakistanis have been displaced in the last 20 years.

Meanwhile, there are concerns of a possible increase in the country’s problems following the Afghan government’s postponement of the presidential and parliamentary elections. It was expected that the elections would take place in April or May, but the government has now postponed the elections to late September or early October.

The Taliban and government and the government and the Taliban have been talking about a negotiated settlement for several years. However, talks have stalled in recent months, following the failure to reach a negotiated settlement during the previous round of talks.

On the Taliban side, the announcement of the presidential and parliamentary elections in April is a step towards increasing the chances of a negotiated settlement. However, the Taliban have not yet confirmed their willingness to participate in the elections.
