Afzal Hadid, head of Balkh province, calls on its true sons to mobilize for assassination anniversary of for friends) paved the way for corruption, the question is how many issue of corruption in the country and work together with the Afghan government and Hizb-e-Islami party once the accord is signed be Farooq Majroh.

"The thing that they first sign the peace deal with is a decision. The military and the political leadership will have more authority to make decisions, but the ordinary people in the country will not benefit from the decisions made."

Six percent of staff members of the women's commission have been removed from their posts by the government, as the law guarantees the women's rights to participate in all aspects of society. There have been reports that the government is restricting women's access to education and work.

"They should continue the work that they have started in the past and not start new projects that do not benefit the women."

Shahzad, said, "Afghan women are not happy with the situation in the country." The government should work to improve the situation for women, he added.

"The situation for women in Afghanistan is very difficult. They face many challenges, including violence, lack of rights, and discrimination."

Shahzad also criticized the government's policies on women's rights.

"The government should take measures to improve the situation for women, including providing more education and work opportunities."

He also called for greater participation of women in decision-making processes.

"Women should be included in all government decisions, including the peace process."

The situation for women in Afghanistan is very difficult. They face many challenges, including violence, lack of rights, and discrimination. The government should work to improve the situation for women, including providing more education and work opportunities. Women should be included in all government decisions, including the peace process.