Kunduz Residents Fret over Presence of Illegal Gunmen

KUNDUZ CITY - Some residents of northeastern Kunduz province are perturbed about the ubiquitous presence of insurgents and criminals, criticising the government’s inaction to control them.

They want the authority concerned to take concrete steps for collecting illegal firearms from such individuals at the nearest possible address to people's worries about their safety.

A resident of Kunduz City, Rahmanullah, told Pamir Afghan News said police, drug traffickers and criminals were causing chaos in the city, leaving the people terrified.

“Openly move in all parts of the city. We have complained several times, but the government has so far done nothing. The officials concerned must craft their movement,”

Another inhabitant of Kunduz, Waisuddin also, called the presence of gun-toting individuals to ask the government to: “Help me,” (Afghan)
