End to Terrorism a Condition for Peace Talks: Ghani

KABUL - President Ashraf Ghani on Thursday said that international meetings next month to lay the groundwork for a meaningful negotiation of talks with the Taliban in a neutral setting would be frustrated if there are no further indication that the fractured insurgent movement thatansson to a rejection of terrorism.

The legitimacy of the Afghan government’s efforts to attain peace are commendable but Afghanistan and Pakistan should know both countries are suffering and that they should not stop their efforts for the peace talks in Islamabad. The High Peace Council said this year dozens of Taliban individually and in groups joined the talks and which remain committed to the insurgency.

Pakistani officials.

According to the committee, the first session on Thursday and the second on Friday.

The two leaders said that they would start the peace process in the next few days. But before Thursday’s meeting, the officials said that they will remain committed to the peace process if the government of Afghanistan submits any request regarding our participation at the conference and in all other issues, we are prepared to sit down and support,” Ismail Rahimi of the High Peace Council said on Friday.

The International community diplomat stressed that his country “hopes for positive results” from the upcoming peace process talks and wants to see constructive dialogues between Kabul and Islamabad.

The insurgents strongly supports any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban.

We support any move which is helpful to re- new peace and stability in Afghanistan, if government of Afghanistan submits any request regarding our participation at the conference and in all other issues, we are prepared to sit down and support,” Ismail Rahimi of the High Peace Council said on Friday.

Indeed, it is essential to enter into a direct peace negotiation with the Taliban to ensure that the peace process is not frustrated by the lack of meaningful talks.

We support any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban. We are ready to provide information to all meaningful talks that is interested,” he added.

Meanwhile, CEO Abdul Basit visited the Chinese city of Beijing last year where he met with high-level Chinese officials. The meetings were aimed at increasing cooperation between the two countries.

The peace process is ongoing and the Taliban have repeatedly called for an end to the violence and for a peaceful resolution to the crisis. The Afghan government has also called for an end to the violence and for a peaceful resolution to the crisis.

The Afghan government said it would not comment on the headline of a meeting to restart talks with the Taliban. The government has already announced that it will hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The deadline in the process that is necessary to stop the Taliban’s Spring Offensive. The Taliban launched the summer offensive in June, vowing to launch a new round of attacks.

We believe that unconditional talks with the Taliban are necessary to achieve a lasting peace in Afghanistan, said the Afghan government.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We support the Afghan peace process and encourage all parties to participate in the talks.

Tehran Backs Afghan Peace Talks: Rashidi

IRAN - Iran’s consul general in Herat, Mahmoud Alikhani Rashidi, said on Friday that Tehran strongly supports any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban.

On the other hand, the Afghan government has also announced its readiness to hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The Afghan government said it would not comment on the headline of a meeting to restart talks with the Taliban. The government has already announced that it will hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The deadline in the process that is necessary to stop the Taliban’s Spring Offensive. The Taliban launched the summer offensive in June, vowing to launch a new round of attacks.

We believe that unconditional talks with the Taliban are necessary to achieve a lasting peace in Afghanistan, said the Afghan government.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We support the Afghan peace process and encourage all parties to participate in the talks.

Tehran Backs Afghan Peace Talks: Rashidi

IRAN - Iran’s consul general in Herat, Mahmoud Alikhani Rashidi, said on Friday that Tehran strongly supports any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban.

On the other hand, the Afghan government has also announced its readiness to hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The Afghan government said it would not comment on the headline of a meeting to restart talks with the Taliban. The government has already announced that it will hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The deadline in the process that is necessary to stop the Taliban’s Spring Offensive. The Taliban launched the summer offensive in June, vowing to launch a new round of attacks.

We believe that unconditional talks with the Taliban are necessary to achieve a lasting peace in Afghanistan, said the Afghan government.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We support the Afghan peace process and encourage all parties to participate in the talks.

Tehran Backs Afghan Peace Talks: Rashidi

IRAN - Iran’s consul general in Herat, Mahmoud Alikhani Rashidi, said on Friday that Tehran strongly supports any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban.

On the other hand, the Afghan government has also announced its readiness to hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The Afghan government said it would not comment on the headline of a meeting to restart talks with the Taliban. The government has already announced that it will hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The deadline in the process that is necessary to stop the Taliban’s Spring Offensive. The Taliban launched the summer offensive in June, vowing to launch a new round of attacks.

We believe that unconditional talks with the Taliban are necessary to achieve a lasting peace in Afghanistan, said the Afghan government.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We support the Afghan peace process and encourage all parties to participate in the talks.

Tehran Backs Afghan Peace Talks: Rashidi

IRAN - Iran’s consul general in Herat, Mahmoud Alikhani Rashidi, said on Friday that Tehran strongly supports any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban.

On the other hand, the Afghan government has also announced its readiness to hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The Afghan government said it would not comment on the headline of a meeting to restart talks with the Taliban. The government has already announced that it will hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The deadline in the process that is necessary to stop the Taliban’s Spring Offensive. The Taliban launched the summer offensive in June, vowing to launch a new round of attacks.

We believe that unconditional talks with the Taliban are necessary to achieve a lasting peace in Afghanistan, said the Afghan government.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We support the Afghan peace process and encourage all parties to participate in the talks.

Tehran Backs Afghan Peace Talks: Rashidi

IRAN - Iran’s consul general in Herat, Mahmoud Alikhani Rashidi, said on Friday that Tehran strongly supports any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban.

On the other hand, the Afghan government has also announced its readiness to hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The Afghan government said it would not comment on the headline of a meeting to restart talks with the Taliban. The government has already announced that it will hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The deadline in the process that is necessary to stop the Taliban’s Spring Offensive. The Taliban launched the summer offensive in June, vowing to launch a new round of attacks.

We believe that unconditional talks with the Taliban are necessary to achieve a lasting peace in Afghanistan, said the Afghan government.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We support the Afghan peace process and encourage all parties to participate in the talks.

Tehran Backs Afghan Peace Talks: Rashidi

IRAN - Iran’s consul general in Herat, Mahmoud Alikhani Rashidi, said on Friday that Tehran strongly supports any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban.

On the other hand, the Afghan government has also announced its readiness to hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The Afghan government said it would not comment on the headline of a meeting to restart talks with the Taliban. The government has already announced that it will hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The deadline in the process that is necessary to stop the Taliban’s Spring Offensive. The Taliban launched the summer offensive in June, vowing to launch a new round of attacks.

We believe that unconditional talks with the Taliban are necessary to achieve a lasting peace in Afghanistan, said the Afghan government.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We support the Afghan peace process and encourage all parties to participate in the talks.

Tehran Backs Afghan Peace Talks: Rashidi

IRAN - Iran’s consul general in Herat, Mahmoud Alikhani Rashidi, said on Friday that Tehran strongly supports any move which helps to negotiate a deal between the Afghan government and the Taliban.

On the other hand, the Afghan government has also announced its readiness to hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The Afghan government said it would not comment on the headline of a meeting to restart talks with the Taliban. The government has already announced that it will hold talks with the Taliban as soon as possible.

The deadline in the process that is necessary to stop the Taliban’s Spring Offensive. The Taliban launched the summer offensive in June, vowing to launch a new round of attacks.

We believe that unconditional talks with the Taliban are necessary to achieve a lasting peace in Afghanistan, said the Afghan government.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

The Afghan government has called on all parties to participate in peace talks and work towards a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

We support the Afghan peace process and encourage all parties to participate in the talks.